One Hand At A Time

If ever a proposal deserved not to get lost in a legislative pigeonhole, it's a bill cosponsored by six members of the Ohio House of Representatives to make a longrange evaluation of state vs. local taxes.

The sponsors are thinking of this as a re-evaluation, but that hardly seems to be the idea. It has been 30 years, they point out, since anything of this kind has been

There is a whole new situation now. A penetrating tax study would be starting from a different set of values. It would be a valuation starting from scratch.

The federal government's confiscatory tax policy has changed the shape of public finance. If, as now appears possible, there is going to be a tapering off of federal taxation, the public will become more acutely aware of a new pressure pointstate taxes.

States are struggling to bring their facilities up to date. But that is only part of the story. Local facilities must be brought up to date, too, but there is a catch in their aspirations and plans.

They must ask direct consent from local taxpayers. They cannot spend money and discuss revenue afterward. They must discuss revenue first. Local government always gets the short end.

This is why a thoughtful evaluation needs to be made of tax policy statewide. The money for the local and state taxes that come out of what's left after the federal government has skimmed its share off the top must come out of the same pocket.

There's room in it for only one hand at a time. If the tax-takers get too greedy or too hasty, they will rip poor Joe Taxpayer's pants. And they will leave poor

In the old days, they used to speak of this as killing the goose that lays the

The up-to-date version is more colorful and exciting-ripping the pants that Joe Taxpayer keeps his money in, if any.

The idea of the evaluation study is to be ready in January 1967 with a full-dress report. That's two years from now. Hurry,

And meanwhile, remember - one hand at a time and leave Joe enough for bus fare to his job and back. Otherwise, he won't be a taxpayer any more. He will be another non-producer, like the taxspenders who robbed him of everything he earned.

Encouraging Sign

It is encouraging to note that strong support is being thrown behind the "tough" strip mine regulation bill now undergoing hearings in the Senate Agriculture and Conservation Committee of the Ohio legislature.

Its chief sponsor is Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, Belmont County Democrat.

Testimony next week by an official from the state of Pennsylvania on operation of the effective strip mine law in that state is being awaited with interest and could prove one of the key points in the campaign being waged by proponents of the

Mr. Sargus has pointed out that Belmont, Jefferson and Harrison counties produce 50 per cent of all strip-mined coal

He can rest assured that Columbiana County anxiously is watching the hearings, too. We're no strangers to strip mining. We have the scars to prove it!

Legislation with more teeth will be as welcome here as in those counties which are the center of the "stripping" industry.

Can We Stand Prosperity?

The national economy is finishing four years of prosperity. An upswing that began four years ago has been uninterrupted and almost free of inflation.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers predicts "vigorous expansion" for 1965. President Johnson has told his cabinet he is looking forward to continued advances through 1965. Optimism is the spirit of the times.

This has not been to say there are no problems.

Teen-age unemployment is at a crisis level. Last December it was three times the over-all rate for teen-agers in general. For nonwhite teen-agers the rate is close to one-third of this population

There also continues to be concern over price rises, aggravated at present by special concern over the possibility of

In the larger picture, the nagging balance of payments problem is something everybody talks about but only one agency really can do anything about. Until and unless the federal government cuts down its own rate of out-of-thecountry spending for foreign aid, it cannot expect much sympathy from private enterprise and tourists.

Bankers are said to be willing to cooperate in keeping lending rates down and in exercising voluntary restraint in foreign loans and investments. This will help, but it will not be enough.

Past experiences with prices increases show they are like the asking price on a house offered for sale. What matters is not what is asked but what someone is willing to pay.

The next few months should tell the story for the year

Can the United States stand prosperity? It never had so much prosperity for so long a time without serious side effects.

How Far 'Gone' Can You Get?

The purpose of the abortive conspiracy to dynamite the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument was to dramatize the plight of American Negroes, according to early accounts.

All it dramatized for millions of shocked Americans was the plight of a certain kind of agitator who, despairing of attracting attention in any other way, resorts to schemes of violence.

The net effect of their violence when they succeed in doing personal and property damage is to make them be feared and disliked by the victims of the violence. This was the net effect of the urban riots in U.S. cities last summer.

Mouse Rules

The thing on TV was about men doing advanced research, and the particular thing that sticks in my mind was an experiment with mice.

The experiment was to find out what happens if too many mice inhabit the same place. The experimenter let them multiply until the enclosure was jam-packed. Any fool would know what was going to happen-but let's not get nasty about science. A scientist sometimes find out scientifically what everybody else knows.

The mice went haywire. The tough-guy mice tried to clean up on all the other mice.

Mother mice didn't know what to do about baby mice. Adolescent mice, never having known anything but the chaos of an overcrowded mouse slum, became surly. They did various versions of the twist, mouse fashion. They squealed and jerked. Some mice that couldn't stand all the racket, fighting, insecurity and uncertainty crawled up on ledges and died. It was not so reported, but it is possible some hurled themselves off the ledges.

While this was going on, successive generations of mice becamse smaller and twitchier. It was a sad story-a glum

The same thing would happen with pigs, ponies, goats, sheep, cattle, horses, armaclearer-thinking Negroes trying to bring the civil rights issue to public attention.

This always has been the net effect of violence. The net effect of destroying the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument would have been to generate a blazing public hatred and contempt for people who would do such a thing, for any reason whatever.

Because these people were purporting to be trying to help Negroes, they would have been repudiated, of course, by all responsible Negro organizations and by all responsible individuals of all races.

It takes all kinds to make a worldbut sometimes the varieties seem to be getting incredibly kooky.

Any fool knows there is a point of satiety in population concentration and bad things ensue when it is disregarded.

The victims of overcrowding get the fidgets and squirmies. Their health deteriorates. When things get so bad that even the fittest cannot survive, everybody goes to seed.

Some victims go berserk. Others languish and die. Some go into a coma. Others hurl themselves to the destruction. Many just mope from the cradle to the grave, doing nothing of any significance. The mouse experiment on TV was sup-

The setup is a prelude to disaster. Any fool can predict the outcome.

Then why must scientists torture mice to learn what is going to happen if people are piled on top of one another in tenement layers in big cities?

Why don't the fools speak up? Or is it against mouse rules?

Decisive Signs Of A Steel Strike

By Victor Riesel

PITTSBURGH What truly disturbs the knowledgeable ones in Pittsburgh is not the indecisive long count of the steel union presidential poll but the decisive signs of strike. It may not break for months. But if it does the paralysis of the vast steel ina coming steel

dustry will last for Victor Riesel months.

Both sides are deadlocked even before there has been any bargaining. Both sides have take positions which place them hundreds of millions of dollars apart. However, this story has been lost to the public because the experts talk in a jargon of their own.

What it comes down to is that the steel industry, though speaking in percentages, has said in effect it cannot pay more than another $100 million a year to its factory people and salaried employes.

Over a three-year period this would mean committing itself to

ON THE UNION side, though its leaders are feuding, they agree that this is "peanuts." They will ask for "substantially more." Just how much is substantial" no one can yet calculate.

Virtually all this calculation is done by the United Steelworkers Union's (USW) technical staffers, who, to say the least, have been emotionally and politically disturbed these past few months. They have not had a chance to hold their industrial war councils. They've been split down the middle by the Dave McDonald-I. W. Abel battle.

They've been harried by fears they'd be fired if their side lost. Many have been with the union since it first swept across the Midwest in 1937. Other unions do not hire specialists fired by another union headquarters. Nor do government agencies, which are loath to make enemies of union leaders who have discharged staffmen.

So the headquarters staffers have spent much of their recent time either politicking or organizing a union of their own, the Staffmen's Organizing Committee, to protect themselves.

BUT NOW that they've time for off-the-record talks, they're doing and saying what comes naturally - planning for the big league negotiations with the steel industry's four-man bargaining team representing 11 major corporations. The union's position, judging from talks with some of the Steel Workers' specialists, will be based on the following

It has been traditional for the USW to get pretty much what Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers (UAW) have won. This goes back to the late '40s when 'auto" would wind up with an increase of 19 cents an hour and 'steel" with 18 cents.

Last year, after a series of strikes, Reuther's union rolled up victories ranging from 18 cents to 21 cents an hour depending on how you do the

THE STEEL UNION brain trust just would not think of not fighting the steel industry for an equal amount. The technicians might be calmed down a little by either McDonald or Abel. Certainly the union's final demand will not be scaled down to much less than what Reuther won for his auto workers, who live window - pane - by-windowpane with the Steelworkers.

It isn't just a matter of status for the Steel Union leaders and technicians. It's a matter of political security in side the union. The rank and file will want to know why they got less than their neighbors down the street - and this can result in local union election upsets which doesn't enthuse the regional and local chiefs at all.

Thus the USW national leaders will be asking for a package far exceeding that which the industry people say is their outer limit. Industry says that it simply does not have the money to raise wages more than nine cents an hour. Beyond that it will not go "voluntarily."

Since this means an added payroll of $100 million annually and it's just about half what the union is set to demand, the difference is vast.

THERE ARE those inside the union brain trust who say let the steel industry increase prices. It has not had such an across-the-board price hike since 1958. But even if the government agreed to permit this. competition wouldn't.

In 1963 the industry tried to raise some prices, but was forced to cut them back when buyers turned to European and Japanese markets or to other

So the insiders here say that barring the easing of demands for a "substantial wage increase" and the costly "permanent job security" plan, there will be a strike.

Congress Should Do The Questioning

President Johnson has come in for some caustic criticism lately from various newsmen because he hasn't conducted more press conferences. Much of the comment misses the point. It's not the obligation of a president of the United States to perform his duties in such a way as to enlighten the press promptly on every subject of importance, even when a policy ray be in the course of evolution and final conclusions may

The very discussion, however, of the relationship between the press and President Johnson emphasizes a serious omission in the whole American system of government. The Congress of the United States comprises the elected representatives of the people and presumably it's their primary responsibility not only to keep informed on what the executive branch of the government is doing but openly to criticize policies and official not have been reached.

ONE WOULD assume from some of the criticisms expressed concerning the lack of the presidential press conferences that it is the function of the newspapermen to constitute an 'opposition' and to crossexamine the chief executive.

Some presidents have liked the idea, but others have felt they would be hindered in conducting some of the delicate negotiations that arise in foreign policy because the press demands answers to specific questions. If these are ignored, they are immediately reported to have undue significance.

Press conferences are worthwhile only when they are carefully planned. It should be the prerogative of the president to insist that all questions be submitted in advance so that he can give them proper consideration and not depend entirely on impromptu answers.

Although press conferences are conducted on an open basis and interesting news about controversial subjects frequently comes out of them, the fact remains that the Congress of the United States ought to do the interrogating.

Great Britain's "loyal opposition" prepares the questions in advance and submits them to the prime minister. If he refuses to answer, there may be a debate questioning his judgment. When he does answer, the opposition has a chance to make its comments in public.

IF THE LEADERS in both houses of Congress were to set ecutive branch was regularly interrogated on the floor of the Senate and the House, the president could not very readily brush aside their questions. He would have to furnish a very persuasive explanation if he failed to respond. He could delegate to his own party leaders the task of reply or even appear in person if he felt so inclined.

The American people have obtained through many administrations in the past the news of what their government was doing even when the White House has been silent. Resourcefulness is an inherent characteristic of the reporter. His job is to inform the people.

It's not the obligation of the government to furnish news before conclusions have been reached and policies have been formed which are ready for announcement Many presidents have used the press conferences, as has President Johnson, to get more publicity for their side for certain controversial measures on which it is desired to mobilize public opinion.

PRESS CONFERENCE under Mr. Johnson and the late President Kennedy have devoted much time to the reading of prepared statements which could just as well have been issued separately but with the television cameras focused on the press conference, an opportunity is afforded a president to get considerable publicity. The main issue today is whether the President is giving out the news of the executive branch of the government. Whether he does it through a press conference or prepared statements or information transmitted to the newspapers and radio and television by his own press-relations secretary is not relevant as long as the public is duly informed.

Mr. Johnson, in his relations with the press, is accustomed to the informality which prevails on Capitol Hill. Impromptu answers and quips-as he walks along with reporters at his heels or makes his remarks at meetings with visiting delegationscan hurt the president's prestige considerably.

When a president makes a joke, not everybody sees the point and some people may think his quips are not in good

The same thing is true about any show of anger or any words of sarcasm that may be uttered in answer to questions by newsmen. The public might misinterpret these, too.

THE PROBLEM is really whether the president furnishes adequate information either in person or through his aides. Naturally, a president wants to make a favorable impression reporters feel that his real obligation is to the public as a whole, and most of the writers are not inclined to become mere press agents of any ad-

Reason Is Human Enough

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON The Johnson administration's willingness to bomb bases in Communist North Viet Nam. risking war with Russia and Red China, seems based on the assumption neither of the two Red giants wants to go to war.

The reason is human enough. The Russians, better than the Chinese, know the danger once a nuclear war starts: The Communist empire built up over the past 48 years might be lost.

And the Chinese, still many years behind the United States and Russia in industrial and nuclear development, know the fatal disadvantage in an all-out war with a country like this, which has nuclear bombs.

Besides, like the Russians, the Chinese have a lifetime effort at stake. They've come a long way since their bedraggled days in the 1920s. One wild mistake now could wipe out all their gains.

Stalin was the prime example of this kind of caution. From the time he took power in the 1920s until World War II he concentrated on building up Russia internally without the risk of foreign adventures or pushing his neighbors.

After the war, when he thought it was safe, he grabbed the European satellites but, when he tried his luck in Iran and the United States challenged him, he backed off.

Meanwhile, after the war he pushed Russian industrial and nuclear expansion until the Soviets became one of the two great post-war powers. In short, he figured time was on Russia's side, and he took his time.

It can be taken for granted the Chinese and his successors in the Kremlin, with all they have at stake, feel the same

If time is on their side then sooner or later, through subversion or weakness among their neighbors or guerrilla warfare that avoids the nuclear kind, they can hope to take over the nations around them.

That it is at the root of the Johnson administration's thinking comes through pretty well in statements by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara this

Johnson, who this month ordered three bomber strikes on North Viet Nam while Russia and Red China howled, said: We must all understand that we will persist in the defense of freedom and our continuing actions will be those which are justified and those that are made necessary by the continuing aggression of others.

"These actions will be measured and fitting and accurate."

And Thursday, McNamara reported to the House Armed Services Committee that the Red Chinese "have shown great caution when confronted with a determined display of military power. He said Russia and Red China can be expected to stir up as much trouble as they can 'whenever and wherever they can do so safely, without a 'head-on' collision with U.S. military power.' And he described the American determination to stay in South Viet Nam as the key to stopping Red expansion not only in Asia but in other developing

Load Limit To Affect State Routes 172, 152

Load limit reductions of 25 per cent have been placed on State Route 172 in Western Columbiana County and Route 152 in Jefferson County to prevent damage as a result of thaws and moisture conditions, Ohio Highway authorities announced.

The sections include Route 172 from Route 9 to County Rd. 410 and Route 152 from Richmond to Empire. The limits will go into effect Monday.

16 great big, great looking, great going wagons from Plymouth.

In 6- or 9-passenger models the '65 Fury wagon is about the biggest, plushest wagon you've ever seen And still solidly in the low-priced field.

Six '65 Belvedere Wagons Belvedere is another complete line of Plymouth wagons for 1965. For the young family on a young family's budget, Belvedere is about the best wagon buy there is.

Four '65 Valiant Wagons

Plymouth presents a third complete line of 1965 wagons, the compact size Valiant wagons. So why a compact wagon? For the same basic compact benefits that every '65 Valiant delivers: low price, gas economy, easy handling, convenient parking.

I haven't seen the pilot show, but I'm ready to take her word for it, and certainly agree with her about TV needing something more sophisticated. Rube Marines, square cowboys and hayseed singers in the profusion we see them on TV this season would make Miss Davis stand out like a queen in a stouch of needed sophistication in the Co. on Route 172 near Guilford Lake.

Charles Gause, beginning his 14th year as adviser of the club, said this year's program will consist of 10 meetings to discuss tractor maintenance and safety.

The initial meeting will include enrollment and distribution of project books. Bob Lewis said all 4-H members interested in this special club should attend.

-Junior Editors Quiz on-BIRDS

QUESTION: How fast do a hummingbird's wings beat?

* * * ANSWER: The hummingbird is a truly tiny creature, no bigger when born than a bumble bee. Yet in spite of this, it is an outstanding flier. As we look at one darting from blossom to blossom, his wings make only a blur. This is because the hummer's wings can move as fast as 60 to 70 times a second. It is this speed which gives a humming sound and provides the bird's name. Modern speed photography has enabled us to see what the hummer's wings in flight really look like (lower pictures.) These birds can hover motionless in the air, and actually fly backward.

In winter, hummingbirds perform perhaps a most remarkable flying feat. Working south of Florida, these mighty mites strike out boldly across the Gulf of Mexico. Without rest or food they fly 500 miles to the Yucatan peninsula. Then they keep on migrating toward their winter homes in various parts of Mexico, Central and South America.

* * * FOR YOU TO DO: The migrations of birds are high among nature's wonders and much remains to be learned about them. Make a list of the birds you see this spring in your area.

Kathleen Wilson of Kennewick, Wash., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

1/2¢ AN HOUR

"Cut 'em off at the gulch, Tex!" These can be the most welcome words in the world to a weary mother. For one solid hour, her "cowboy" will be a silent witness to a late afternoon TV saga of the old west. The cost? About 1/2¢ per hour for electricity!

Television is just one of more than 100 modern electric appliances available for your comfort, convenience and enjoyment. Today's average family is using four-and-one-half times as much electricity . . . and at a much lower price per kilowatt hour ... than it did 20 years ago.
